I strongly support the concept of allowing cable and satellite TV subscribers to select specific channels and, by implication, reject other channels within their individual delivered content 'packages'.